A few days ago each of our teachers received an invitation from the English Speaking Union in London stating that Lady Astor was having an 'At Home' reception for the 74 American girls. We were to meet Queen Elizabeth. Of course, this was the highest social honor that could have been bestowed upon us.

We were all quite thrilled and excited, and were trying to get out how to act when one meets royalty. We had been told to wear simple dresses, not too bright and not too dark.

Haggan Works With Schools In Carter

H. C. Haggan, of the agriculture department, has been invited by the Carter County Board of Education to conduct the grounds work on the meeting of the ground school superintendent of the county.

Dr. William Jesse Baird believed in his calling most thoroughly. Measured by the standards of ethical character, Lincoln's education was complete, he pointed out.

"Who but an honest man would have walked miles to return a few pennies intrusted to him?" he asked. "As a lawyer he could not be accused of dishonesty."

"There was little opportunity for Lincoln to acquire a formal education," he explained. "Pioneer life in his modest intelligence combined and made his best result of wisdom."

"To his neighbors he was assisting in all disputes, and was respected by all who came to know him," he explained. "Tolerance is another standard by which to judge the education of a man, Dr. Baird declared."

"He acquired a vocation in 1837 he moved to Springfield, Illinois to practice law. No more of this remained constant in his public office. In spite of all this he remained constant in his public office. In spite of all this he remained constant in his public office."

Break in Brief

By Lela Anne Carter

The high-flying Eagles smashed the Morehead Vikings 28-20 in a sensational come-back game Tuesday night, February 11.

The break quietest was out to who and kept their lead throughout the game. The score at the end of the half, 16-14, still was in the Eagles' favor; at the end of the third quarter score was 21-14 and the final score put the Eagles ahead 28-20. So you can see that Break outplayed M.S. throughout the game.

There has been much talk about rivalry between the two Morehead schools, and since the Vikings beat Break in this season's initial encounter, the rivalry has been doubly renewed. The Eagles were really out of blood on the second meet and never for a minute did they let their push to win.

The boys from Break have done it again and we are all looking forward to the district tournament when we can see a return engagement between the Eagles and the Vikings. If you remember, Morehead beat Break by a seven-point margin and were beaten by Break with an eight-point win. No doubt M.S. is really gunning for Break now, but the Eagles won't lose a bit of that old fighting spirit.

They're not only ready for the tournament, they're eager to go. Now let's take a look at Break's individual scores. First let's take Bob Clay, 9-1 guard.

Bob was really on the ball the M.H.S. game. He is right in there on every rebound and shows promise of becoming a fine defensive player. Congratulations to Bob Clay for a game well played. Keep up the good work!

Of course, you all know Break's towering center, Marvin Mayhall. He is the only member of the Break squad who was on the 1946 championship team. Mayhall's height gives an excellent advantage in rebounding and in crisp shots. "Long-John" is truly a very valuable asset to this year's Eagles.

The team's long-shot expert, Tolliver, is doing splendidly with each game, and great things are expected of him by next season. Clayton Skaggs, forward, is Break's top scrapper. His ability in set shots is also very good. It is often due to his go-ahead technique that Break is able to run up the score.

Outstanding in the game was Johnny Holbrook, also a forward. Holbrook also has plenty of fight. Right through the game he was at the right place at the right time.

Last and least is Billy "Squire" Frater who trades on his lightning speed and set shots. And, of course, we all appreciate all the subs who are always right in the game.

All five with us. They're our boys and we're proud of them. On Tuesday, Feb. 12, the boys from Break defeated the Mt. Sterling Trojans 32-20. Skaggs and Holbrook led for high-scoring honors with 12 points each. This victory was a birthday present for Coach Skaggs. He was celebrating his birthday. Coach, and congratulations for the swell job you are doing with your Eagles. You have the thanks, appreciation, and support of the team and the student body.

Daily Devotional

Following is a devotional submitted by A. P. Harvey. Think not again the wells of Life to fill.

By any conscious act of your own will.

Retire within the silence of your soul.

And let God's Spirit enter, and control.

The springs of feeling which you thought were dried.

Shall be deepened, sweetened, and refilled.

BY ERIC BALGOWN

This is an up-and-down story, and I pulled it out of my memory when a woman teacher was telling me about her most baffling classroom problem.

"Four out of every five of my pupils are not interested in the game," she said. "The football team, basketball and the social life of the school are the only reasons they try to have for going to school. The student audience, I seem to appeal to their pride. I reward them with all the eloquence at my command and the consequence of getting up in ignorance. But all this seems futile."

Whereupon I told her the true story of Harry Browne. All true and true.

The family lived in a remote neighborhood in the Kentucky county, where most of the land was whittled over with permission. Bushes and sprouts and the roads were narrow, rutty trails. Harry's parents were good farm folks—industrious, frugal, thrifty, but natural handicaps prevented them from becoming prosperous.

Harry was not an unusually bright boy. He was what might be called run-of-the-mill. At the end of our story begins, he was in his last year at the little one-room district school. The teacher, a young graduate of the local normal school, was to be heard with the family. Rights he took a little time for reviewing the lessons to help the boy over the bumps in the eighth-grade course.

Believing in the power of suggestion, the teacher decided to try it on Harry. Every night or two he would say, "Harry, you grow up to be a successful man."

And to the father and mother, "Your boy has the makings of a celebrity. If country boys have done it, so can he."

There were stories of great men who had started in obscurity. They were told to the boy, and the parents listened in.

The trick worked. The parents decided to sell their farm and buy a place within easy reach of good high school. The following September saw the Browns on a small farm in the outskirts of our village, which had a first-rate high school.

Fired with ambition sparked by the back-country teacher,

Harry buckled down to his studies. He sacrificed play time to get his lessons letter-perfect. Other boys played and got by, but Harry took no chances.

In due time, he was graduated with honors. Then he went to a small college, where he worked at odd jobs to help pay expenses. Two or three years at the college, then he went to a large university in another state to finish his education. In the meantime, he had married an ambitious girl in our village. I have always suspected that the girl fell in love with him partly because he was ambitious.
